CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: ITS RELATION TO THE DESTINY OF MAN

A large and interested audience was present Tuesday evening at Odeon Hall, when Paul Stark Seely, C. S. B., of Portland, Ore., gave a lecture on "Christian Science: Its Relation to the Destiny of Man." Mr. Seely is a very forceful and interesting speaker and held the attention of his hearers throughout the evening.

Malinda J. Smith, First Reader of the Christian Science Society of Bethel, in part, in introducing the speaker.

He said: In behalf of the Christian Science Society of Bethel, I bid you welcome.

I am grateful to God, and also to the Christian Science Society of Bethel, for the opportunity to speak to you tonight.

Mr. Stark Seely, who is a resident of Portland, Ore., gave an address on Agriculture. He has recently visited, and parts of New York. In New England agriculture is in a fairly prosperous condition. He argued that there is no need for, nor can legislation make agriculture prosperous. The old law of supply and demand must be the only rule that can govern.

Mr. McIntire is not sure that any plan of cooperation among the farmers can be successful so long as the farmers act as they do now and have always done toward cooperation.

Several amusing things happened during the noon hour. Dinner was served at the grange hall in the ladies' dining room. When the ladies of the Bethel Grange, responded to by Brother Gates of Paris Grange; Pina Dact, Sister Russell and son, Richard, with their eating because the desert would be late in being served. A little later he made a frank statement that he was planning for the future course was somewhere between Auburn and South Paris, just where he could tell. To kill time he called upon Past President Wilson Conant of Bethel who was most optimistic that agriculture is all right so long as the farmers raise what people want and put it up the way they believe on the meaning of the American word. "No use to tell about the good old days when a farmer could make a basket of apples in a corn field and get away with it. These days are gone by never to return. The conditions, including pests and diseases, have made growing crops very much different than it used to be. Demands of the public upon the farmer are very much different to market and to be. Doing the job takes more time and being successful every time."

Novelty Sports Woolens Are Chic for School Clothes

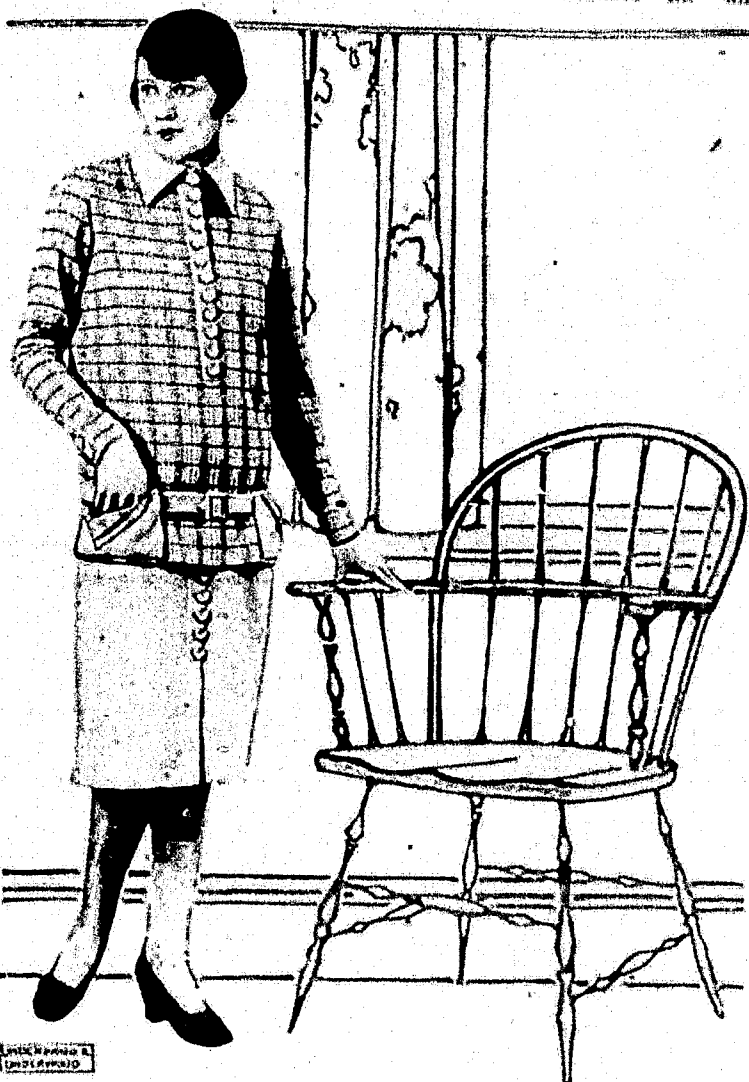

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

A STUDY of the new modes reveals the prominence of novelty woolens in the realm of sports and utilitarian apparel. Which fact contributes directly to the attractiveness of clothes for the schoolgirl.

What with the gay flannels and woolen crepes, patterned tweeds, ombre striped repps, tricolor knit ef-around the hips. The accompaniment of a simple cardigan coat and skirt of woolen which is neutral in tone accents the color glory of the blouse.

Very clever sports ensembles face the tuxedo revers of the full-length coat with the same vivid knitted medium as that employed for the blouse. When one visualizes the knitted feet and the like the classroom is destined to stage a scene of animated color and design this season.

A smart note for fall is the two-piece flannel frock, combining solid color with patterned. The costume in the picture is the latest offering of a leading Parisian couturier. The material is beige kasha, the skirt a wrap-around of plain color and the blouse of plaid design with high neck and long sleeves. An ideal costume for the college girl.

The most intriguing item of chic in the new sports and school clothes is undoubtedly the blouse. Originally interpreted in its every phase. For its development every cunning medium is employed from flannel and velvet to jersey and myriads of knitted effects. Color schemes for the new blouse are at once startling and fascinating.

The latest flight of imagination is the blouse of tricolor stripes. That is, the knitted jumper shows horizontal stripes full eight inches deep, beginning with a light shade for the top, grading to darker for the central portion, finishing with the deepest tone stripes in hues of yellow, red, green and gray, the effectiveness of the color scheme is most assuring.

Children Need Spinach as Often as Possible

Children need spinach as often as possible and they should have a pint of milk or more a day. Spinach soup which combines these two valuable foods in an excellent way contributes to both needs. Directions for making it are given by the United States Department of Agriculture.

1 quart milk 2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter 1 cup ground or
1 teaspoon milk 1 cup spinach
Place the milk in a double boiler with the salt. Wash the spinach well chop or grind it, and if ground place a bowl to catch the liquid which runs from the grinder. Add to the spinach the milk and butter until well blended and add to the milk with the spinach. Stir until thickened and the spinach is cooked.

Vegetables Used in Sweet Mixed Pickles

An Attractive Vegetable Plate for Lunch, Supper

A Tasty Combination Lunch.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many combinations are good in vegetable plates. Particularly appetizing is this lunch or supper of baked potato, cauliflower, fresh or canned peas, and fried canned pineapple. If cauliflower is not available, cabbage may be used.

The foods must be timed so as to be ready together. The baked potato will require about 45 minutes to cook, the cauliflower and fresh peas about 20, and the pineapple about 30 minutes, according to how many pieces are to be prepared. Cook the pineapple slowly in butter, after it has been drained and floured, until it is a delicate brown, and keep it hot while the other foods are being arranged on the plates.

Avoid having too hot an oven for the baked potato. A very hot oven produces a hard dark crust. When the potatoes feel mealy and tender to the very center, take them out of the oven immediately and work them between the fingers, then slice a fork into one side and make an opening to let out the steam. Press the potato flesh upward and put a piece of butter on it. Sprinkle with paprika and serve at once.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

another. These led them to a solid wall. It was broken through with difficulty and they came into a room beyond which was yet another wall. Again they set themselves to break through the barrier of stone, and when it was finally removed they found, unharmed and intact, the earthly treasures. So it was with Mrs. Eddy searching amid the hidden treasures of spiritual truth. She found one step, then another, and another. One was the discovery that the only efficacy of drugs is in proportion to faith in them, another was that the human mind is not a divine healing agent, and that hypnosis is the opposite of divine power. The steps often seemed to lead to impassable barriers, the false education of centuries, the arena of friends, the persecution of enemies, but pressing on she found intact these spiritual truths about God and man which Christ Jesus said should never pass away.

PERFECTION AND REALITY

What, then, is it that Christian Science teaches? On page 353 of Science and Health Mrs. Eddy writes: "Perfection underlies reality. Without perfection, nothing is wholly real." Perfection, the condition of reality, is it not the goal toward which men are slowly moving? However far we may yet seem from its attainment, is it not the objective, the destination, yet dim in the gloaming of imperfection's shadows?

He who knew whence man came and whither he goes had no hesitation in giving the unconditional command, "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Would he have wasted words bidding men do what there is no possibility of doing. He spoke well knowing that he was declaring the purpose of existence, the legitimate and attainable goal of all intelligently directed endeavor. What does perfection mean? It means that which is complete, flawless, not lacking in anything. Do you think that an absolutely intelligent cause would produce an incomplete, blameworthy, and imperfect creation? Is perfection anything more than the natural effect of a perfect cause? Jesus was but bidding us discover and demonstrate the order of being which is natural to God.

But alas, what is between us and perfection? A world of imperfection, it seems, and we seem to be in it. Can we gain dominion over, and freedom from this? We can, Jesus did so and said we should do the same. The progress he showed was mental. It is what Paul referred to when he said, "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." It is that mental change mentioned by Jesus when he told Nicodemus that he must be born again, gain a different consciousness of life and manhood, before he could find God's creation.

The Scriptures have much to say of the heavens and the new earth. Paul speaks of the new man. The former order is to be remembered not as a thing to be feared, but as a thing to be overcome. The new man is to be born again, gain a different consciousness of life and manhood, before he could find God's creation.

and deed, the Life, the Truth, and the Love which is God!

MORTAL MIND IS GOD'S OPPOSITE

As God is the one universal intelligence, or Mind, constituting and governing all true identity, so evil, the opposite of God, is a lying sense of mind and its manifold expression. This false sense of mind is shown in thoughts of hate, fear, disease. It is evidenced in the thought which believes matter is cause, that matter contains life, and that evil is power. This lying and substanceless opposite of God is termed in Christian Science mortal mind. It offers its lie of identity in material, temporary bodies. It opposes reality at every turn, wisdom with ignorance, brotherhood with strife, kindness with cruelty, provision with lack, health with sickness, life with death. Its lie is double-faced, for with its pain and discord it offers a sense of sinful pleasure, a transient sense of beauty, a temporary sense of health, and sometimes even a palpitant sense of goodness. Thus it would deceive.

SELF EXAMINATION ESSENTIAL

Jesus showed that individual man may, though the whole world be in opposition, demonstrate through spiritual power his God-given freedom from discords of the earth. The transition is not likely to occur in a moment. It will occur in the proportion that we gain the Mind of Christ. The little ground is within. The enemy is the belief that matter, God's opposite, and so-called material life, is our being and holds us in its grasp to determine our condition, our health, and our destiny. The enemy's most active agent is that false mortal sense of self which it would have us believe is our identity. That sense of identity which is fearful, selfish, sick, sinning, willful, proud, and self-satisfied, expresses not true manhood but a state of inflated ignorance. There must be ridance of the empty useless sense of being. The house cleaning must be thorough. A good housekeeper once told me that she could always tell whether a woman was thorough in her housekeeping by the condition of her cellar. Sometimes we dust out the upstairs and things appear in order, but down in the cellar and secret chambers of thought there is more rubbish than we will acknowledge. Sometimes it is a haunting fear, an unbelieved resentment, a smug sense of self-satisfaction, an inclination to dominate others, a hesitating air, a stubborn reluctance to yield thought to the will and purposes of God. There are some of the evils that ask to be let alone. All can be faced without fear, and the enemy will be Truth's every nook and cranny of our thinking, purging every thought, action, and purpose, the same as we shall find real being.

One of the most practical ways of getting good crops is to use a good seed. Some good seed have caused an annual increase of 100 pounds in the production of each bush of the daughter's dam.

Systematic control of grazing, giving the opportunity for applying research findings, in the National Forests has increased their productivity by 25 per cent. At the same time the regulation of grazing on the range has improved the condition of the herds where it has been applied. On the other hand overgrazing is continuing on the 100,000,000 acres of unoccupied and unoccupied public lands together with a large acreage of privately owned lands which cannot now legally be controlled. This overgrazing has caused such deterioration that these unregulated ranges are producing only one-half of the forage they could produce, and livestock production is greatly restricted as a result.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 93 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 93 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness?

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby anything she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and almost any little ill, fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

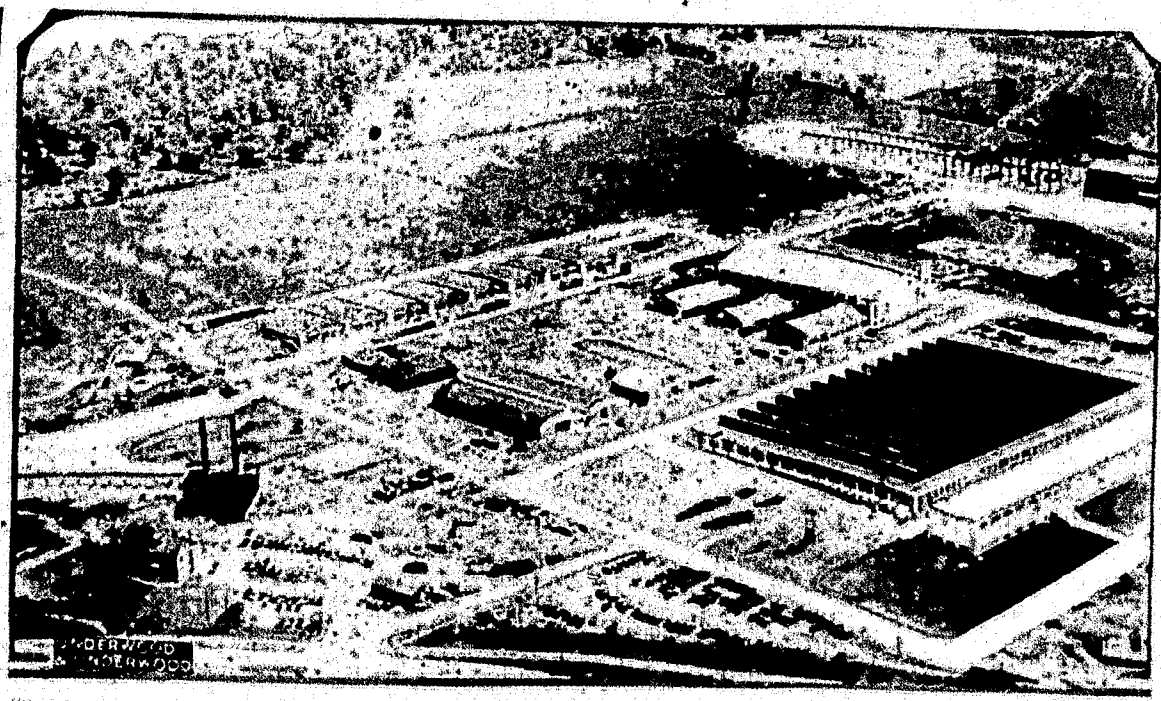

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that for the little one. Without the evil taste of other laxatives, it is as pleasant as a sign of relief; constipation, diarrhea, or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning: It is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Palestine Jews Expect Messiah

Look for Coming of Superman Who Will Put End to Next World War.

New York.—A new Messiah who will become king of the Jewish nation and whose appearance will put an end to the next world war is predicted by the orthodox Jews of Palestine.

They declare that he will be a superman and that his kingdom will be a great center from which will radiate peace and brotherhood extending throughout the entire world.

The revelation of the Messiah will be preceded by the rebuilding of the temple, they say, adding that this will cause the emigration of many nations, especially those of the Moslem world. The last world war will focus itself in Palestine, and at the critical moment when all appears lost the Messiah coming from heaven will gain a decisive victory according to the predictions. It is said he will immediately be proclaimed king the first king of the Jewish nation in 20 centuries.

Of the 150,000 Jews in Palestine, most of whom have returned there from the four corners of the earth since the war, at least 50,000 are expected developments to rapidly transpire until at an unexpected moment the Messiah will be revealed. "The Jews are praying every day for the coming of the Messiah," declared the president of the town council of Peta.

HEIRS OF AN INSANE WOMAN CLAIM TWELVE MILLION FUND

Viscount Bangor One of Claimants to Fortune Administered by Crown Since 1798.

London.—Viscount Bangor, the well known Irish peer and large landowner, is one of the claimants to a fortune of more than $12,000,000 in a suit against the British government which will form one of the most romantic cases of the chancery court here for many years.

The claim goes back to 1798. In that year, Maria died in London and Maria's estate, a certified lunatic, left a fortune of about $400,000. At compound interest this sum is now estimated to be worth about $12,500,000. The original estate was administered before Maria's death by the lord chancellor, as the legal guardian of all persons of unsound mind.

Afterward, the crown asserted that Maria was an illegitimate child and Tikva, the largest Jewish agricultural colony in Palestine.

"The Jews believe that some time, a Messiah will come who will bring good not only to the Jews but to the whole world," remarked D. Smithson, who was decorated for distinguished service in Palestine during the war. "This idea is spreading throughout the country," he continued.

"The movement to Palestine, the settling on the land and the building up of the Jewish national home is the forerunner of the Messiah," declared Ephraim Sacks, formerly of Chicago, now president of the town council of the beautiful orange-producing colony, Rehovoth.

The ideal of the restoration of the temple just prior to the coming of the Messiah is soon to be realized, they hope. Ever since the destruction of their last temple, in 70 A. D., by the Roman Emperor Titus, the Jews have gathered daily at the famous "walling wall" in Jerusalem, praying for the rebuilding of the temple. The invasion of the Moslems in the Seventh century resulted in the erection of the Mosque of Omar, the third most sacred shrine of the religion of the sacred rites of the ruined temple.

"The Mosque of Omar will be torn down soon and a wonderful temple like Solomon's shall be built there," happily exclaimed a rabbi as he was looking out over the temple area from a window of his synagogue. Rumors are widespread that the specified parts of the temple have already been prepared in various countries, ready to be transported to Palestine and assembled at a moment's notice.

A group of Jerusalem, as has actually sent a petition to the League of Nations asking for a portion of the old temple site to be awarded to the Jewish nation. The tabling of this petition by the league has not daunted their hopes for a restored temple. So sincerely are they expecting it that a class of prospective priests are being taught the performance of the sacred rites of the temple sacrifices.

The restoration of the temple will create intense animosity among the surrounding nations, they fear. "The nations of the world will fight against Jerusalem in the near future," declared one of the largest manufacturers in Jerusalem. "The leaders of the Jews sense the situation but they are afraid to express their opinions publicly," he remarked.

The circumstances making possible a war in Palestine will be the withdrawal of the British administration it is believed. The secretary of a synagogue in Jerusalem said to me: "The Jews have been waiting 2,000 years for England's help but the British won't always remain here. A certain rabbi making a prophecy 20 years ago foretold that the English would come into Palestine in 1918, but he also stated that they would

Claims Cancer Is on the Increase

Asheville, N. C.—One out of every ten human being succumbs to cancer, Dr. William P. Healy of New York declared in an address at the annual convention of the American Association of Obstetricians, Gynecologists and Abdominal Surgeons here. He added that the disease was on the increase and asserted that one out of five women between the ages of forty-five to sixty-five years also dies from the disease.

leave Palestine before the expiration of a quarter of a century. This is yet to be fulfilled. Then, he says, that there will be a big war here. The last world war will focus itself in Palestine. "The kings of the earth shall fight against the Jews in Palestine but the Messiah will come and cause the enemy to be utterly defeated."

"The Messiah will be recognized as the great world leader, the law of the Lord shall burn out of Zion, and nations will turn of war no more," the rabbi firmly maintain.

Forage Land in U. S. Is Almost Depleted

Washington.—Depletion of forage resources in this country has reached such a stage that definite and earnest effort is urged to solve the problems of forage production on ranges and to develop satisfactory utilization practices for this type of land.

Attention is called to this situation by W. H. Chapline, inspector of grazing in charge of range research at the United States forestry service. "As early as 1897," Chapline says, "range grazing lands were stocked to their capacity, while some were already overstocked. Contained over stocking over enormous areas reduced the carrying capacity both by cutting down the quantity of forage produced and by increasing erosion of the produce surface soil."

"Continuous search is essential to meet fully the needs of the range live stock industry. Open herding and the bedding-out system in handling sheep, and the deferred and rotation system of grazing, have resulted in increased carrying capacity and a chance for improvement of depleted range."

It is estimated that 20,000,000 sheep, goats and swine and 15,000,000 cattle, horse and mules of the eleven western states contain 70 per cent of their feed from range land. The value of the live stock is approximately $500,000,000.

Man Buys Entire Village in California for $7,500

Baraka, Calif.—C. W. Morgan set a new price for California towns when he took over the village of Oak Bar in Sixteen county, for $7,500.

The town consists of a general mercantile store, a dance hall, a post office, a gasoline station and a few houses and cabins. Morgan owned the town once before.

There was no other issue of the marriage, and the claimants assert that Maria's sum was for best of kind. All the heirs of that sum, who include Lord Bangor, have united in the petition, which was originally filed by Miss Amy Mason of London.

The point at issue, according to the claimants, is whether the estate of Hamilton will operate in such a case. So far as is known at present, there has never been a precedent decision on this point of law. There are no descendants of Lord Howe, to whom the money was granted, and thus, if the petition is successful, the treasury will be responsible for the payment of the claim.

A Turn-Down

Vice President Barnhart of the National Surety company of New York said the other day that the modern girl expects a man to spend $50 at least when he takes her out of an evening, whereas her mother was content with an expenditure of $5.

"The modern girl, I'm afraid, is extravagant," Mr. Barnhart went on. "A young bank clerk proposed to a modern girl the other night:

"Darling," he wound up anxiously, "you could live on $50 a week, couldn't you?"

"The girl laughed.

"Yes," she said, "but no longer."
